DISTURBIA: SCREAMS IN THE PARK RETURNS TO TEST THE BRAVERY OF GUESTS THIS OCTOBER

New Thrills for 2015 Include Insane Clown Asylum and Caverns of Darkness

Rosemont, Ill. – MB Financial Park is proud to announce that the acclaimed interactive horror experience “Disturbia: Screams in the Park” is returning to the basement level of the parking garage at MB Financial Park (5501 Park Place) Thursday, Oct. 2. The spine-tingling attraction will remain open through Sunday, Nov. 1. Tickets are on sale now.

The haunt features 20,000 square feet of terror with more than 35 rooms where guests determine their own fate based on the choices they make while traversing the inescapable halls of the haunt. New additions to the haunt for 2015 include an unnerving insane asylum managed by murderous clowns who are killing for laughs, along with sinister caverns of darkness. Guests will travel through a maze of underworld passages, unable to rely on their sense of sight to aid them in their escape. As guests reach the end of the bone-chilling caverns, the sum of all their fears will be there to greet them.

“Disturbia: Screams in the Park” is a product of Joseph and Mike Pantano. The attraction’s highly interactive nature and high quality settings help distinguish it from other haunts in the Chicago area. In its debut year, “Disturbia: Screams in the Park” was ranked third by the Chicago Tribune and Haunted Illinois in their lists of top Chicago-area haunted houses.
